'RED BEARDS.'

Strange Stories of the Manchurian Bandits.

It is no secret that there are Japanese in disguise as Chinese, going with impunity among the real Chinese, all over the Russian lines, as coolles or navvies, barrack-builders, trench-diggers, pedlars hewers of wood and drawers of water vendors of beer and cigarettes and cheap pocket-knives, and everything else imaginable. The Russians know it, but cannot prevent it, Of course, as long as he is in Manuauria the Japanese keeps his secret as closely as 1211 the grave, for his life probably depends on it. But having got clear away, he likes to get rid of pigtail and dirty garb, and become once more a clean and decent Japanese. Usually the transformation is effected inprivate, so that none but his intimates know; for at a lodging-house used by both nationalities nobody keeps count or notices if a Chinaman goes in and a Japanese comes out. So it is rather curious work getting. on the track of these men from Manchuris, and finding out anything about them.

It is no secret that hawkers go from village to village in Manchuria, selling button and tapes, and doing other harmless necessary business, even in regions infested by the Chungchuses, the Red-Beard Bandits. It is no secret that a man can join the bandits, raiding towns, stealing whole herds of cattle, cutting telegraph wires, and tearing up rails to baffle the pursuing forces. And it is well known how, in the last resort, if hotly pressed, the bandits can either make terms and share the look with the Cossacks, or resume the role of peaceful peasants and appear in the fields working as innocently as any yokel that ever lived on a farm. The peasantry do not as a rule betray them, for several reasons. First, from the fear of vengeance; secondly, because the Chungchuses rather follow the style of old Robin Hood in posing as friends of the poor (as a matter of policy); and finally, because the Cossacks themselves are worse brigands than the Hung-hu-tze. Soldiers chiefly prey on the poor and helpless, leaving the influential people carefully alone. Of the Japanese who have been in Manchuria in Chinese guise, some find their way back via Shanhaikwan and Tientein, some via Kores, and some by steamer from Newchwang. There have been a dozen steamors leaving Newchwang since the ice broke up, and they took away over 15,000 Chinese, artisans, tradesmen; farmers, and so on, all anxious to get away from the war, with its dangers and troubles and its stoppage of business. - Out of the 15,000 perhaps there might be five disguised Japanese. I do not know, and I merely guess. I really know of only one. He belonged to Osaka, and had been carpenter, coal dealer, bankrupt, railway clerk, school teacher, stoward on a steamer, had been in gaol, of course not for any fault of his own, and then he became a tourists' guide for Europeans and Americans doing the sights of Japan. He was in the China-Japan war of 1894, but would not say in 1255 what capacity. From 1895 his movements must remain his own secret, up to the Boxer time, when he was again in a certain part of China, which is the current Japanese formula for saying 'Don't ask too

Since 1900 this man had been in various parts of Manchuria. Sometimes he went as a Japanese, but at other times 'it was convenient for purposes of trade with the natives to pass as one of them.' Once he kept a medium low-class beerhouse for Russian soldiers 'at a certain town ' Then he was a Manchu expectant sub-prefect. Meantime he belonged to the great army of Limited, hereby invite applications from the Shareholders of the Company for the then a Chinese horse dealer in a small way, unemployed and impecunious aristocracy of travelling in remote country districts looking for bargains. He added, laughing, 'I had no horses, no customers, never bought or sold an animal. I asked (well knowing), Then what did you do? He answered, Yasumimashita, honto !' Taking a rest, truly!' And we both laughed at the irony

> Well, he said, there were things which could not be divulged, of course, but there was no harm in saying a few things which were already open for all the world to see for themselves. How many more Japanese had done the same as himself? Naturally that could not be stated, even if he knew, men in the world know. It was obvious to anyone that there might well be fifty, or a hundred, or any number; and that they could penetrate everywhere, for if the Russians wish to build a house or barrack or fort, to lay a railway siding, to ferry a regiment across a river, to carry a traininnermost part of a fortress, to repair a warship, they must employ Chinese coolies; and what European can tell when a Chinaman is not a Chinaman?

'About that a funny thing happened

once, said my informant. I was one among many passengers going in a big river junk three days journey up the ——river. I was then a Buddhist mendicant priest, and I spoke with a slight Mongolian accent. We passengers all huddled up together in Alexandra Buildings, or at the Hongkong the bottom of the junk to sleep at night Alexandra Dundings, or a serior in the bottom of the bottom of the serior day clothes on (a Hongkong, Shanghai, and London. Tepulsive thing to a Japanese), and the next man to me was a Chinese, foreman of a tannery at Mukden. He had the smell of the tanyard and the stale hides, pretty strong! At night our boat moored to the bank at a small town, along with other boats. While we were all asleep there was a sudden alarm, the boat's mat roof. with a lot of snow, fell on us, and (everybody seemed to be shouting. The tanner nextme, only half awake, let out a bad word in Japanese! The next minute he remembered, and spoke Chinese, but I had spotted him, and as I didn't know what the alarm was about I hastily whispered, 'Anata-to watakshi-to Nihon-luttaire'both you and I are Japanese - and we stood 1237 together ready for the worst, for river pirates, Cossack riders, or werknew not what. It was nothing, after all, only a badly-moored junk breaking adrift and smashing into every other. But it was a queer introduction to a fellowcountryman in an outlandish place, eh? I tell you honestly I hadn't suspected him for one of us, nor he me. So you see how it is.'

It was impossible to extract any admission that this man had been a bandit. He had seen the Chungchuses, as everyone had who travelled in the country but he would not say he had been one of them. He said, however, that there was no real scoret about Japanese being among them; it was obviously in the nature of things, and need not be denied.

The stories about the Chungchuses being in the pay of Japan, he said, were abourd; it was plain that there was no way to convey any pay to them, nor any means to guarantee that the pay would be earned. Any man who might become a member of a band might in time come to influence the other members of that band in any desired direction; that was all that could be done, and it could not amount to much. Still, it might be worked up into a force with some cohesion in a few months; and if they could show a few successes every Chihaman in Manchuria would be ready to join the winning side. That sort of thing, however, counted for nothing, because what was wanted was a body of men willing to harass the Russians without waiting for them to be already losing. Of such men the numbers possible to raise were small comparatively. But they were good. With a little instruction they made distinctly better soldiers in every way than the Russians, whother Cossacks or others. My informant, while denying that he over witnessed an engagement between Chungchuses and Cossacks. stated that on several occasions the bandits had defeated a superior number of Russians. The latter usually allowed themsolves to be outwitted, and neglected the

On this line of conversation my informant did not care to go any further. He said, however, that it seemed to him better that Port Arthur should remain in Russian hands for a good while, and he thought those behind the scenes both in Japan and Manchuria could see how Russia's strength must be strained much more by having to defend it than by concentrating at Hart in. The mere maintenance of such long lines of defence must be an exhausting offort, even without fighting; perbaps even more without a fight than with one, for fighting stimulates.

I told my Japanese friend a little about the story of Hamibal and Fabius 'Cuoctator, how the Romane avoided a battle, and let the Carthaginians wear the medves out in a hand of plenty. To my surprise he l said he read it at school in Japanese added that the lessons of the B er War were better beened in Japan than in Erre Isnd T. Comen in the Dody Ch.

will Fly Like a Bird.

A St. Catharine's (Outerio) man maned I R Dalmoida, one of the teachers at Ridley College, claims to have invented a practical airship. Mr Dalmeida has now completed his machine, and hopes in the course of a few days to make his first flight. It is constructed of light but rough and strong bamboo, and is built to resemble as closely as possible the shape of The wings, constructed of bamboo and silk canvas of beautifully fine and durable testure, are fashioned of the exact model of a bird's wing. Each wing has an area of 84 feet. They are worked by a most ingenious but strikingly simple system of levers, which are moved by pressure of the operator's feet. The inventor expects to have a trial trip in a few days, and if everything goes satisfactorily he will then cross to Toronto, after which he will start on a crip to St. Louis to the World's Fair, where . prize of $100,000 is offered for a machine that will enable a man to fly.

CONSTIPATION RAVAGES.

BILE BEANS A CERTAIN REMEDY.

THE OPINION OF A GREAT PHYSICIAN.

frihat celebrated physician, the late Sir Andrew Clark, expressed the firm opinion that constipation was the cause of one half of the ailments from which women and girls suffer. It fills the blood with unpurities, robs the system of energy, causes piles, headache, biliousness, skin eruptions and a host of other disorders. For those disorders, and for their root cause, Chas. Forde's Bile Beans for biliousness are unequalled.

Mrs S. Williams, of Longhope, Gloucester, England, has proved this. For fully twenty years, she said to a reporter of the Dean Forest Morcury, 'I was a martyr on stipation. It brought on piles and biliousness, robbed me of appetite and energy, and made my life a burdon to me. Many a weary day have I spent weighed down with a feeling of utter wretchedness and not caring whether I lived or died.

Doctors? Yes, I tried several, but no amount of doctoring seemed capable of affording me the slightest relief; and by degrees I grew weaker and wearier : I also suffered periodically from crysipelas. · A few months ago I saw some striking testimony in a Birmingham paper to the success of Chas. Forde's Bile Beans in cases of piles and constipation, so I determined to give them a fair trial. *Soon after beginning the course I felt a charge. I became brighter, and as persevered with the Beans, the distressing symptoms from which I had suffered so long began to leave me. My appetite improved and my bowels. were corrected and strengthened. I ceased to be troubled with constipation, and what I ate no longer made me bilious. The arysipelas, too, disappeared completely, and I have had no further trouble from that Now, after a thorough course of the Beans I feel stronger, more vigorous, and in better health generally than I have felt for many years. Thanks alone to Chas. Forde's Bile Beans life for me has been made once more worth living."

Bile Beans cure indigestion, biliousness, autemia, female ailments, weakness, colds, chill, nouralgia, lumbago, rheumatism, in-fluenza, debility, palpitation, pains in the back, piles, constipation, alcopleseness, loss of appetite, congestion of the liver, headache, flatulence, pimples, akin cruptions, and a host of ailments having a common origin in impurity of blood, a general congestion of the system and loss of vital

Bile Beans are purely vegetable in composition, and are a certain cure for indigestion, biliousness, constipation, piles, anomia, debility, female ailments, akin, eruptions, all liver ailments, and all disorders arising from defective bile flow and assimilation. They are obtainable from all chemists and medicine vendors. Price 75 cents (Mex.)

The Cooped-up Correspondents. It is earnestly to be hoped that the Japanese will not have reason to repent the mistake they have made in playing last and loose with the war correspondents. The Japan Mail of the 25th ult. says :-

The unfortunate correspondents are said to be at length losing patience. It must be confessed they have shown great selfcontrol. It only for that reason they decerve consideration. But there are other reasons. There is the reason that Japan will not secure even a moiety of the public credit her deeds deserve unless she permits the presence of independent witnesses to record them; and there is the reason that, however long-suffering these correspondents may be, they are only human after all, and it is inconceivable that their good-will should survive the treatment they are receiving. As men of intelligence and honour they are entitled to ask that they be either frankly told to go home. or explicitly informed when and in what circumstances they may expect to go to the front. We are perfectly cognitant of the abuses that have gradually come to disfigure the profession of correspondent. The Best men among the correspondents themselves are cognisant of these abuses. No one condemns Japan's desire to correct them, in her own case at all events. But there is a sound and useful kernel in this fruit of correspondence, and the question is whether the Japanese are not killing the kernel in their attempt to remove the decayed parts of the fruit. It should be possible to manage this matter without antagonising the correspondents, but the fact is that they are gradually becoming antagonised. The newspapers they represent cannot understand their failure to send news and are naturally disposed to attribute such a strange failure to some shortcoming on the part of the correspondents themselves. Thus many hard-working competent men are threatened with permanent loss of the reputations they have built up by years of toil. It is very hard. We do not think that Japan is consulting her best interests; or that it can be impossible to give the correspondents some satisfaction without making any acrious sacrifice.

RUSSIAN INVASION OF INDIA.

KUROPATKIN'S PLAN DISCOVERED.

An Elaborate Scheme.

LONDON, July 11. The London . Express has published the text of an official detailed plan for the invasion of India by Russia.

The plan, which was prepared by General Kuropatkin, deals with the matter comprehensively.

Among the provisions set forth are :--First, the consolidation of Russian influence in the Meshed region.

Second, that there shall be two campaigns, with two or three years' interval between each, ending with the capture of Kandahar.

The taking of Kabul and Kashmir were considered by General Kuropatkin | to be unnecessary.

Third, the position of the British would then be the same as in 1857, with the exception that the natives would have the support of the Russians. [Kabul, Cabul or Cab of is the capital town of N.E. Alghanistan, west of the North-west frontier of India. Its population is 60,000. Kandahar, or Candahar is the capital town of central Afghanistan, and is 200 miles South-west of Kabul. It has a Lopulation of 50,000. Kabul and Kandahar came into world-wide prominence on the occasion of Lord Roberts' Jamous march from Kabul to the relief of Kandahar in 1880. Kashmair, or Cashmere is in the north-west of India, and has a population of 750,000 -En. C.M.]
